1:00-1:05: Welcome

1:05-1:50: Presentation: Layer Your Tech Devices to Help in Case of an Emergency

Presentation Overview: Falls are a common and serious risk for seniors, especially if they live alone. One way to prevent falls and get help quickly if they happen is to layer your tech devices. This means using more than one device that can alert someone in case of a fall, such as a smartphone, a smartwatch, a medical alert system, or a voice assistant. By layering your devices, you can increase the chances of getting help faster and reduce the potential complications from a fall.

Presenter Bio: Eric Gee leads the team as Executive Director for AnewVista Community Services. He most recently was the Director of the Generations Lab at Avenidas. Prior to that he spent his career in Tech, working on data security products at Intel, developing enterprise warehouse applications, building the first internet-based San Mateo County's hospital diversion system and mobile data system for first responders.
